Dear Sir ,

Might I trouble you on a small numismatic question? I have noted your name as the author of two essays on the Mexican Revolutionary coinage . But cannot find out whether these were separate publications or issued in the pages of some Numismatic journal . Mexico is very far away and it is most difficult to get any information on the matter here .

Were these essays issued in Spanish as well as English ? I can read Spanish so that it would be indifferent to me which language they were written in . But I should like to read them .

With apologies for troubling you ,

Yours very truly ,

E. Carter .

Dear Sir:

The two articles on the Mexican Revolutionary coinage appeared in our series of monographs and did not come out in any journal. The first one was superseded by the second which had twice as many varieties. In other words the first edition is superfluous. The second edition costs $2.50. This was later printed in Mexico City in English with additional notes and four or five new pieces that I at that time did not know of. The illustrations however in the Mexican edition are very poor. If one is a close student of these coins he would need both my last and the Mexican edition which is called "Historical Notes on the Coins of the Mexican Revolution" published by J. Sanchez Garza, Mexico. and which can be gotten from A. Frank, 3a Cedro No. 115, Mexico, D. F., the price of which is not over $2.00(United States).

Very truly yours,

HW:JG
